In the fall of 1969 the residents of Junior College District 536 passed a proposal to establish Lewis & Clark Community College and elect a Board of Trustees in February 1970. Who would have thought that in six months, the college would have been in operation.

In May of 1970, a decision was made to purchase the beautiful campus of Monticello, which has been a nationally-known college for women since it was founded in 1835 by Benjamin Godfrey, a retired sea captain, with eight daughters.

The community is saddened to see the end of Monticello, but is anxiously awaiting the growth of a college which will blaze significant trails into the future . . . just the way the two pioneers for which it is named.

BLAZING A TRAIL

NOTIFY AND STIMBY

Citizens of Lewis and Clark Community College District 536 will long remember the wonderful year of 1970.

On November 25, 1969, the people of this district decided a public junior college was needed in the area. Less than ten months after that mandate, you--the first students--were attending classes in a college of academic excellence and permanent facilities. A remarkable feat? Only time will tell, and as students, you will write a chapter in the success of this great educational venture.

The Lewis and Clark area citizens, including the college trustees, administration, faculty and all employees of our new college, are very pleased with the progress made this first year, but most of all we are proud of you, our charter students. You are the first of many thousands to follow.

We, the trustees, hope that as you go through our new college, some of our new college will go through you, and that your lives will be enriched by this educational experience. It should be remembered that in this life and the life hereafter, we will be judged by our deeds and accomplishments. The only reason for the existence of this new institution is to help you, our students, prepare for those things found in the fullness of life. All of us will be measured by how you avail yourselves of these great opportunities.

To our charter students--We salute you!

In this year's book you join in a way the pioneers in the past--those imaginative and bold people who trekked into new lands, who opened new areas of discovery.

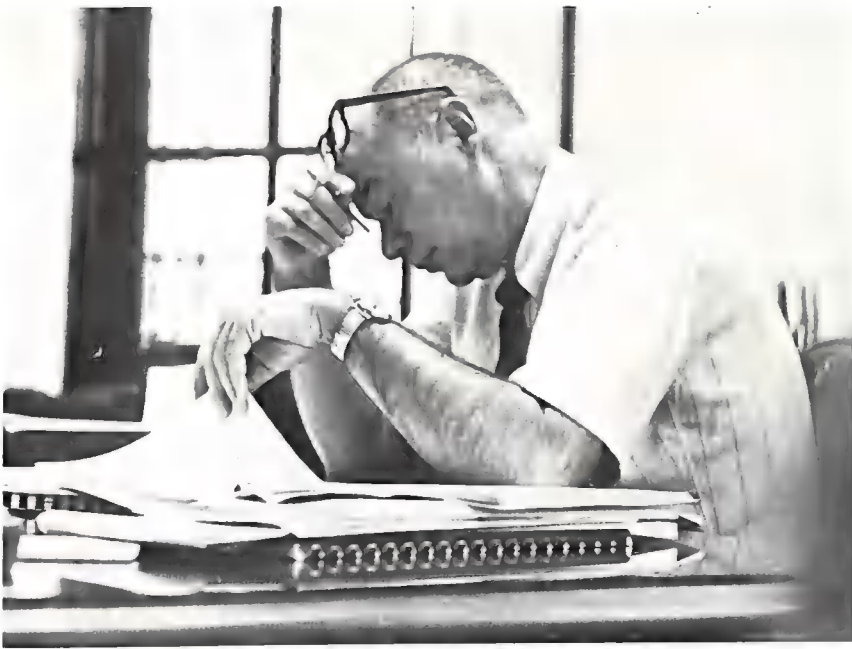

Many important pioneer journeys take place without leaving home. Discovery of new learnings, opening up to new experiences, starting new ventures such as this yearbook are all part of the exciting "voyages" we take in our lives.

So the pioneering of new relationships and expanded educational horizons are caught in this printed record of the first year's journey for the people and places which make up the new Lewis and Clark adventure.

CONGRATULATIONS, JOHN.

John Helmkamp, of Edwardsville, was awarded a receipt for a free yearbook after submitting the winning name, TREK, in a student yearbook-naming contest conducted earlier this fall. John gave the following as his reasons for submitting his entry: "The word, trek, means a journey. It means a movement forward. Trek represents the adventure and boldness of Lewis and Clark and their journey toward a goal. Trek will represent to the students a path toward scholarship and the forward-looking spirit of this school. Trek should symbolize to the student, a journey toward his goal in life through education."

EDITOR'S MESSAGE

TO THE CHARTER STUDENTS OF LEWIS & CLARK COMMUNITY COLLEGE . . .

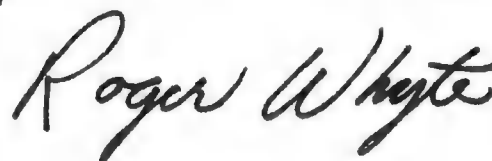

In the fall of 1970, a group of Lewis & Clark students assembled to begin production of the TREK, a book which we hope will allow you to recall more vividly 1970-71 at LCCC.

This has been an exciting and challenging year for us. Lewis & Clark has opened the door to an opportunity that might not otherwise have been available. We have had the benefit of an outstanding faculty and inherited a meaningful educational philosophy and the beautiful campus of Monticello College.

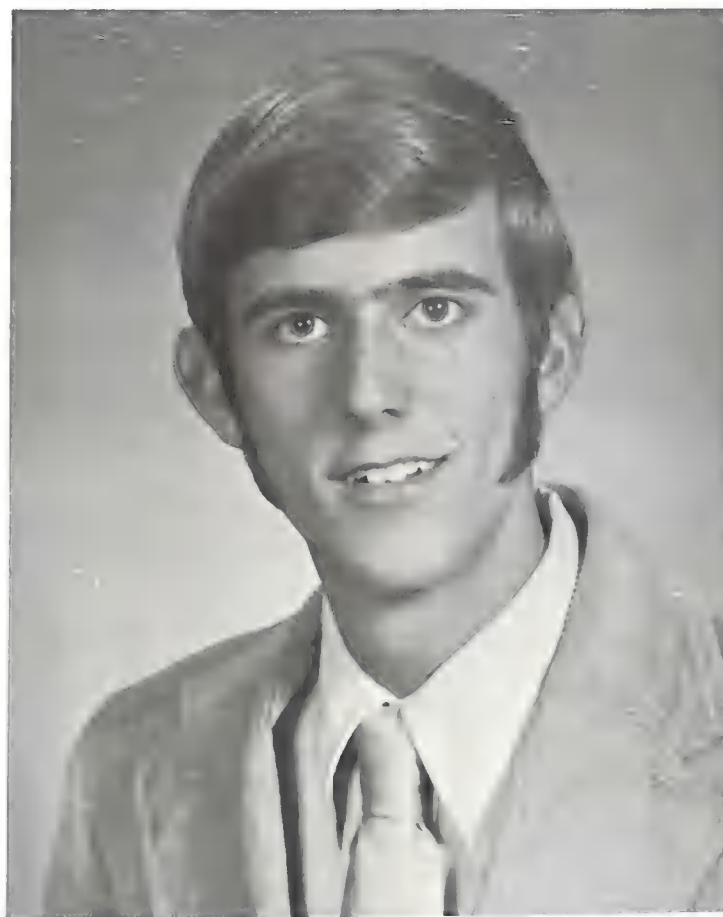

As charter students of a new community college in Illinois, we hope to perpetuate the rich heritage of Monticello and lend our own "pioneer spirit" to the establishment of a new era in education. We are deeply indebted to the Board of Trustees whose members through their far-sightedness and perseverance have "moved mountains."

I would like to thank each member of the yearbook staff for his contributions and give special recognition to Georgia Searles and Patti Baker for their hard work and sacrifices which helped to make my job much easier.

With all of us working together --our board, administration, staff and students--we can't help but become the "Best Community College in the State."
